At the restaurant:

The group arrived sooner than we expected. So we had to get dinner ready for them faster than usually. But everything had been most cleverly prepared and most beautifully decorated.

During dinner they told us that the busdriver had driven the bus most dangerously. One woman talked most excitedly. She had expected the busdriver to drive more carefully. On their way here there had also been a traffic jam, so luckily the busdriver had to go more slowly/slower. Somebody suggested that busdrivers should be controlled more strictly.

When dinner was over, the group thanked us most generously. All the guests left the restaurant most happily.
